

Who Am I?

Before you start: In a pre-activity, the leader can ask each girl to fill in a questionnaire with the questions and collate them, so she has the answers to help out if girls are unsure. The information can also be included on the label so girls can check the information themselves.

What you need: Labels with each girl's name (in the unit/patrol) written clearly, safety pins and list of questions.

Instructions: Leader pins a label (with another girl's name on it) on each girl's back. The girls then walk around asking each other girl one question (increase this number if you only have a small number of girls playing, but they are not to ask all the questions from that girl at once – they have to come back and ask another). When they think they can guess 'who they are' they can go and tell the leader. The game continues until every girl has guessed 'who they are'. If the questions run out before the girl guesses, they must make a guess based on what they know already. The game can be played over again with players changing names. Older girls can make up their own questions with the rule that the answers can only be 'yes' or 'no'.
