

Promise and Law

Collages

an activity by Catherine O'Halloran

You will need:

Lots of old magazines and catalogues.

Scissors and glue

Pieces of card about A3 size.

What to do:

Write the Guide Law at the top of the page – this can be done in marker, calligraphy or by cutting out words from the magazines.

Girls then cut out pictures which they believe illustrate that law and glue them onto the paper.

Why Not:

- Use this activity as a pre-promise activity – particularly if the group is large.
- Use this as a patrol activity – allocating laws between patrols and perhaps doing them over more than one week.
- Use the finished product as a display in your local area for recruitment or as a backdrop for a biscuit stall etc.
