Promise & Law Fish

What you need: Several sets of fish shaped cardboard pieces, each with one part of the promise or one law written on the reverse. These can be made as a separate craft activity and laminated or covered with contact, 30cm pieces of dowel or bamboo. String, Magnets and Paperclips.

Instructions: Put a paperclip onto the 'nose' of each cardboard fish. Place cardboard fish into a pond (suitable container depending on sized of group – an icecream container or a wading pool). Tie string to end of 30cm sticks and tie a magnet to the other end. Now fish for your Promise and Law!

Why Not...

Play Team Games.

1. Team has to fish for a full set of Promise and Law putting it together as other members fish out more sections. Each time a duplicate fish is found, the team has to return it to the pond and miss a turn.
2. Teams play a form of 'go fish'. Each team fishes out five fish and then asks the team to the right for missing pieces. If the answer is 'go fish' they must fish out another piece, If a team ends up without any pieces as they have put them altogether, then the game is over and the team with the most complete Promise and Law is the winner.
3. Have a Team relay – fishing rods are located at the pond. Players play version 1 above, but have the added challenge of having to run a distance to the pool and run back with their 'fish' and tagging the next player in the team. More fun can be added by constructing an obstacle course between players and the pool or including a challenge such as keeping a balloon between your knees for the distance!
